

Tier One: Introduction to Military Culture, Families and Deployment

May 2, 2025

A Live, Interactive Webinar

Description:

This training is the first of the three tiers that sets the foundation for becoming a Star Provider and serving military-connected clients through the Star Behavioral Health Providers (SBHP) directory. The day-long training introduces participants to military culture, including the basics of its history, organizational structure, core values, branches of service, mission, and operations, as well as the differences between the active and reserve components. Additionally, considerations for working with military-connected families will be discussed such as identifying unique experiences of military couples, spouses and children, and normative military family life stressors that may inform the experiences and clinical presentation of military-connected clients. The training concludes with an overview of the impact of deployment on service members and families. The unique experiences and psychosocial impact that service members and families face across the deployment cycle are explored as well as ways to support military-connected individuals during each stage of deployment. Tier One highlights the need for engaging with military cultural humility, with an emphasis on educating providers about the factors that may impact mental health practice with military-connected clients. The information and contents of this training have consistent and credible empirical support as documented in the scientific literature (Heward et al., 2024; Blue Star Families, 2024; Office of the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense for Military Community and Family Policy, 2023; Maury et al., 2022; Briggs et al., 2020).

Instructor Biographies:

Brian Ludden, Ed.D., LMHC, LPC, is a Military Behavioral Health Counselor at the Center for Deployment Psychology (CDP) within the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences in Bethesda, Maryland. In this role, he supports the implementation and expansion of the Star Behavioral Health Providers Program (SBHP), which trains civilian behavioral health providers to effectively support service members, veterans, and their families. This initiative aims to increase the availability of high-quality behavioral health services, particularly for those in the National Guard and Reserve.

A veteran of the United States Army, Brian transitioned from military service after a medical discharge in 2009 and dedicated his career to mental health support for the armed forces and their families. While serving as the Military Connected Student Support Specialist with the School District of Clay County under a Department of Defense Education Activities (DoDEA) grant, he facilitated the placement of Military and Family Life Counselors (MFLC) in local schools to support military-connected students.

Brian earned his Master of Clinical Mental Health Counseling from the University of North Florida in 2012, followed by a Doctor of Education in Educational Leadership from the same institution in 2017. His extensive clinical experience encompasses community mental health, substance abuse treatment, school-based therapy, specialized therapeutic foster care, pediatric and family-based treatment, and private practice. He specializes in treating anxiety, PTSD, and grief, with a focus over the past 11 years on providing care to military service members and their families.

Identifying as a Humanist Therapist, Brian is dedicated to creating a therapeutic environment where clients feel seen, heard, and empowered. He believes in the inherent potential within everyone to grow, heal, and find meaning in their lives.

Heather C. Tompkins, PhD., MS-ATR, LCMHC is a Military Behavioral Health Psychologist with the Center for Deployment Psychology (CDP) at the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences in Bethesda, Maryland. In this role, she provides oversight and fosters collaboration for creative arts related research projects in partnership with the Defense Intrepid Network.

Dr. Tompkins received her BS in comprehensive psychology and art from Troy University, MS in Art Therapy at Florida State University, and post-graduate certification in Substance Abuse Counseling from East Carolina University. She completed an MA and PhD in clinical psychology with a concentration in neuropsychology from Fielding Graduate University. She is a licensed clinical mental health counselor and registered art therapist.

Prior to joining CDP, Dr. Tompkins served as a psychologist at the Department of Veteran Affairs providing assessment and treatment to Veterans with co-occurring substance abuse, mental health, and medical conditions. She has worked across diverse settings in both clinical and non-clinical capacities, including outpatient/community agencies, state hospitals, and military installations providing counseling, training development and facilitation, and consultation. She is trained in EMDR, Cognitive Processing Therapy, Written Exposure Therapy and Art Therapy. Her education and training have allowed her to work with individuals and groups ranging the lifespan to treat, manage, and cope with persistent and severe mental illness, substance abuse, brain injury, PTSD/trauma, and co-occurring disorders, within and outside of the military community.

Complimentary to her professional roles, being a military spouse has provided a unique perspective to the culture, day-to-day life, and stressors of the military family that further informs her work at CDP.

Professional interests include moral injury, biopsychosocial/spiritual impacts of military life/culture on military spouses, creative arts therapies, mindfulness, and integrative treatment approaches for co-occurring disorders.
