

Tier One: Introduction to Military Culture, Families and Deployment

June 12, 2024

Fargo, ND

Description:

This training is the first of the three tiers and sets the foundation for becoming a Star Behavioral Health Provider (SBHP) and serving military-connected clients through the SBHP registry. The day-long training introduces participants to military culture to include basics about its history, organizational structure, core values, branches of service, mission and operations, as well as the differences between the active and reserve components. Additionally, considerations for working with military-connected families will be discussed such as identifying unique experiences of military couples, spouses, and children and normative military family life stressors that may inform the experiences and clinical presentation of military-connected clients. The training concludes with an overview of the impact of deployment on service members and families, exploring both the unique experiences that service members and families face across the deployment cycle and psychosocial stressors associated with the stages of deployment. Tier One focuses on areas other than assessment and intervention, with a specific emphasis on educating providers about the factors that may impact psychological practice with military-connected clients. The information and contents of this training have consistent and credible empirical support as documented in the scientific literature (Blue Star Families, 2022; Briggs et al., 2020; Meade, 2020; Office of the Deputy Assistant Secretary of Defense, Military Community and Family Policy, 2022; Veri et al., 2021).

Instructor Biographies:

Christy Collette, LMHC, is a Military Mental Health Counselor for the Center for Deployment Psychology at the Uniformed Services University of the Health Sciences in Bethesda, Maryland. In this capacity, she assists in the national expansion of the Star Behavioral Health Providers (SBHP). SBHP is a training and registry program with a mission of increasing access to high quality behavioral health services to the military-connected population, especially to those in the National Guard. Christy also serves as a faculty member and teaches workshops on a variety of topics including Traumatic Brain Injury, Assessment and Management of Suicide in the Military, PTSD, and working with Military Families. She also trains a series of workshops specific to working with military couples.

Prior to coming to CDP, Christy worked at the Military Family Research Institute at Purdue University. In this capacity, she worked on the SBHP program and implemented the program in new states. In her role at MFRI, Christy sat on the Executive Committee for Joining Community Forces Indiana and worked to coordinate resources across the state of Indiana.

Christy received her bachelor's and master's degrees from Ball State University. She is a licensed mental health counselor with experience in community mental health and private practice. She currently maintains a small private practice and works as a crisis clinician at a local hospital. Christy has over 15 years' experience working with children through play therapy and has worked extensively with military families.
